

Extreme close-up

This cutaway shows a gunite or shotcrete pool with extreme cantilever construction. The automatic cover moves back and forth in the gap between the under-deck and the cantilevered portion. Builders locate the void so the waterline rests under it (below) or inside it (right).

